House Approves Reapportionment, Districting Next

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — With 25 shopping days until Christmas, state lawmakers—eager to be home for at least the last 10—saw some hope today.

The House had adopted a reapportionment proposal and was ready to take up congressional redistricting. Senators were prepared to act on the $275 million capital improvements bond issue proposal, and majority leader C. Stanley Mechem said the goal is to wind up this special session as soon as possible.

Tuesday's floor session was by far the most exciting yet in the House, where the resolution to change the basis of representation in that chamber was adopted with just one vote to spare, 84-41.

Redistricting could provide a lively time again. Both efforts at remapping Ohio's legislative districts stem from U.S. Supreme Court decisions this year that lawmakers—congressmen and state legislators—must be elected on the basis of reasonably equal population.

The Senate came back after supper Tuesday for its first evening session of the three-week period. Senators passed six House-approved bills, twice as many as they have passed in the last two weeks. The measures would:

Implement the $500 million highway bond issue approved by voters at the May primary by authorizing Sinking Fund commissioners to issue bonds and notes and specifically earmarking a penny from the state gasoline tax and revenue from the axle-mile tax on big trucks. Advance payment dates of gross premium taxes of out-of-state insurance companies to bring in more income at a peak time of state spending and to give the state a one-time windfall of $15 million to $17 million.

Transfer the 140-acre George Rogers Clark State Park, site of a 1780 battle between Kentucky Woodmen (retaliating for British and Indian raids) and Shawnee Indians, to near-by Springfield.

120 Poverty Plans Okayed

32 States Get Federal Funds

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — Money to launch a nationwide campaign against poverty will soon be flowing to 32 states under the administration's anti-poverty program.

The first 120 projects to win approval were announced Tuesday by Sargent Shriver, the nation's anti-poverty chief. They'll get a total of $35 million out of the $800 million approved by Congress for the first year of the program.

The biggest chunk — $15 million — will be used to establish 41 Job Corps training centers where idle youths, 16 to 21, will receive basic education and perform conservation-type tasks. A big recruiting job to get volunteers for the Job Corps will be launched next week. Most of the camps will be for boys, but a few will be set up for girls.

Another $13 million will go to a dozen cities and six rural areas for community-run programs aimed at a variety of targets, including teaching Indian children to speak English, training unemployed parents in job skills, and providing social services for impoverished areas.

Other projects for which funds have been approved include setting up neighborhood youth corps patterned on the Job Corps camps but for youths who will live at home, and helping colleges provide jobs for needy students so they can remain in school.

President Johnson, who pushed the anti-poverty bill through Congress shortly before adjournment, was reported by Shriver to be pleased with the progress being made to get the program going. Shriver announced the first projects after a two-hour conference with the President.

22 Traffic Fatalities Seen for Holiday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Department of Highway Safety today estimated at least 22 Ohioans may die in traffic accidents on the state's roads in a period extending from 6 p.m. tonight to midnight Sunday.

"We don't want to see last year's record duplicated," said Highway Safety Director Warren C. Nelson. During the same period last year, 28 persons lost their lives on the state's streets and highways during the holiday period.

Two Indicted In Missing Ballots Case

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Cuyahoga County election board aide and a printing company salesman have been indicted in an investigation of missing ballots in a local option election.

The aide, Louis N. Farr, was named in two counts of negligence and failure to deliver ballots between Oct. 21 and 28. One of the indictments is a felony, carrying a maximum penalty on conviction of one to five years.

August Konas, a salesman at Judson-Brooks Printing Co., was accused in one count of failing to deliver the ballots. This is a misdemeanor and carries a maximum penalty of up to one year on conviction.

The grand jury probe began after it was disclosed that more than 1,000 liquor local option ballots that were supposedly printed for three precincts of an East Side ward turned up missing.

Voters in the ward turned down a proposal to go dry.

U.S. Grand Jury Checking Baker

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury has been investigating the Bobby Baker case for six or seven weeks, it was learned Tuesday.

Acting Atty. Gen. Nicholas de B. Katzenbach launched the grand jury probe, it was understood, in the midst of the presidential campaign. Republicans then were accusing Democrats of a whitewash in the Senate investigation of Baker, former secretary of the Senate Democrats.

It was learned that the grand jury was concentrating on subpoenaing documents. The Senate Rules Committee plans to reopen hearings in the Baker case next Tuesday.

CARVING THE TURKEY — This scene will be repeated in the homes of many Pickaway Countians tomorrow as families gather together to observe the Thanksgiving holiday with the traditional roast turkey dinner and all the trimmings. Mrs. Viola Benzenberg, 526 Northridge Road, is performing the carving honors here.

White House Physician Told Widow of Death

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I told Mrs. Kennedy that the president was dead."

Then he told Mrs. Kennedy. Burkle said the upper portion of the president's body was covered by a white cloth.

A priest administered the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church. "I asked him to recite the prayers for the dead, which he did and the response was made by Mrs. Kennedy and me," Burkle said.

Outside again, Mrs. Kennedy insisted on remaining with the body until it was returned to Washington and the White House. Burkle said a Dallas medical examiner ruled Kennedy's remains could not be moved, that homicide case procedures must be followed.

"I informed him again that it was essential that we have him moved immediately as Mrs. Kennedy was going to stay exactly where she was until movement was effected," Burkle said.

There was some delay, but finally, local officials agreed. Mrs. Kennedy followed the coffin, and Burkle took a last look at the emergency room.

"The roses which had been in the car with the president were in the wastebasket," he said. "Two roses which had broken off were lying on the floor." Burkle put them in his pocket.

"On the way to the plane, we rode in silence for a while," he said. "I then reached into the pocket and took out the roses I had gotten from the floor and gave them to Mrs. Kennedy, stating what they were."

"She took them, put them in her jacket pocket, smiled and thanked me."

Anti-Poverty Camp in Ohio To Take 100

IRONTON, Ohio (AP) — An area beside Vesuvius Lake 10 miles north of here has been selected as one of 120 centers by the Johnson administration to make the initial attack in its "war" on poverty.

The area in Wayne National Forest will be called Camp Vesuvius Lake and will be the home of 100 camp members who will do conservation and wildlife work. It will be administered by the U.S. Forestry Service.

R. Sargent Shriver named the site Tuesday as one of the federal government's new centers for the federal job corps. The centers are expected to give employment to thousands.

District Forest Ranger John Ward said the camp members at Vesuvius Lake, who will live and work in the camp, are expected to work on a variety of projects including hiking trails, horse trails and additional lake facilities.

The job centers are the first step in President Johnson's anti-poverty program. The federal job corps was set up by a task force headed by Dr. Vernon R. Alden, Ohio University president.

Escapes Get Tiny Taste of Freedom

BUYRUS, Ohio (AP)—Three inmates of the Crawford County Jail—Elsworth Moyer, 21, and Carl Wheatly, 21, both of Gallon, and James Minnix, 19, of Butler, Ind.—escaped after overpowering a guard Tuesday. But deputies and police captured them in a dry river bed about 20 minutes later.

200 Whites Still Missing In Congo

Light Fighting Continued after Rebel Overthrow

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Belgian paratroops and Congolese soldiers searched today for some 200 whites still missing in the northern Congo.

More than 900 refugees have arrived here from the former rebel capital and another 500-600 awaited evacuation at Stanleyville Airport. Of the 63 Americans trapped in the rebel zone, 34 and the bodies of two murdered missionaries had arrived in Leopoldville.

Scattered fighting continued in Stanleyville, which fell Tuesday to Congolese troops and white mercenaries after the paratroops landed to rescue the European and American hostages threatened with death.

Several rebels and a Belgian paratroop sergeant were killed during the night in mop-up operations. Much of the skirmishing took place near the airport where the foreigners awaited evacuation to Leopoldville.

Premier Moise Tshombe canceled plans for a triumphant entry into Stanleyville today. Rebel chief Christophe Gbenye and other leaders of the Communist-backed "Congolese People's Republic" have disappeared.

The United States told Tshombe's central government that rebel leaders must be made to answer for the murder of two American missionaries, Dr. Paul Carlson and Phyllis Rine.

George Clay, 38, a South African correspondent for the National Broadcasting Co., was killed as he accompanied Congolese troops advancing on Stanleyville. Shot twice in the head, Clay died in the arms of Associated Press correspondent John Latz.

The U.S. consul in Stanleyville, Michael S. Hoyt, who had been in rebel custody since last summer, told a news conference that he and his four assistants were repeatedly beaten by their captors.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson told the United Nations the United States supplied planes for the Belgian paratroop mission after the rebels tried to use the hostages as bargaining points for political and military gain.

Stevenson said that in negotiations with U.S. Ambassador William Atwood in Nairobi, rebel minister Thomas Kanza refused to discuss release of the hostages "except on conditions which my government had neither the moral nor the legal right to consider."

Magazine Honors Blind Teenager

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP)—Michael Lichstein, 18, who has been blind since he was nine-year-old, has been named "Young American of the Month" by the editors of American Youth Magazine for his work in the field of computer programming for blind operators.

Lichstein, a freshman at Oberlin College, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lichstein, Cincinnati.

Coroner Stephen D. Yoney said the boy, Layne Sander, picked up a 38-caliber pistol that had been lying on a nightstand in Mrs. Renshaw's bedroom for eight years. Yoney said the boy told him he pointed the gun at Mrs. Renshaw, seated in a chair in her bedroom, and pulled the trigger twice. Nothing happened. The child pulled the trigger again and the gun discharged, striking Mrs. Renshaw in the chest, the coroner said.

Once Around Roundtown

THERE'LL BE turkey on the table at the Circleville Fire Department tomorrow. . . And the families of the men on duty will be honored guests. . .

Lt. Glenn Jones, Jim Armstrong and Don Edgington will prepare the meal which includes turkey, oyster dressing, mashed potatoes, homemade rolls and all the trimmings. . . They will also wash the dishes later, as ladies take a well-deserved rest.

WORD received today noted that Pickaway County's Community Fund drive now stands near its goal. . .

According to James A. Wilson, campaign chairman, collections have passed the $38,000 level. The drive is now in its final phase and indications are the goal of $38,788 will be reached and passed.

A FESTIVE holiday mood will fall on Circleville Friday with the official Christmas opening.

Highlighting the first day of the Christmas shopping season will be a huge Santa Claus Parade. Holiday decorations in the downtown area will also be put into full use.

The parade will get under way at 2 p. m. Following the parade, Santa Claus will be stationed in the downtown area at regular intervals for 24 days, until Christmas Eve.

The colored lights, tinsel and other decorations in the business districts are sponsored by local merchants.

King Renamed Dem Leader

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Senate Democrats, who gained three seats and considerable bargaining power from the Nov. 3 election, have chosen Frank W. King of Toledo to lead them again in the 1965 session.

King, who served in the Ohio House in 1949-50, has been a state senator since 1953. He was Democratic majority leader in the 1959 Senate and minority leader the last two sessions.

There had been talk that King, elected president of the Ohio AFL-CIO last May, might resign his Senate seat. But he announced last Friday that he would stay, and was selected floor leader at a supper caucus Tuesday night.

Blind Man Shows Thanks; Cooks Turkey for Needy

CLEVELAND (AP)—Blind for 16 years but thankful to God he's still alive, Nicola M. Perna plans to celebrate Thanksgiving by cooking turkey dinner for nine needy people he doesn't know.

"Both ovens and all six burners will be loaded," he said. "I'll do it all except the carving."

The menu? A 16-pound bird with all the trimmings, chestnuts and a class of wine for a toast.

Perna obtained from the Cleveland Welfare Federation and a Golden Age center names of people who weren't likely to enjoy the traditional meal—lonely people and needy families.

He called his guests personally. The happy blind man will have two elderly persons and

Martial Law Clamps Down On Violence

Sources Indicate U.S. Threatened To Curtail Aid

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — About 2,000 students rioted in Saigon today demanding the ouster of Premier Tran Van Huong and were dispersed by paratroopers with bayonets and tear gas.

Martial law was declared after a day of violence that saw scores wounded.

In an attempt to end the civic tumult and get on with the war against Communist guerrillas, U.S. officials warned that American aid may be curtailed unless the disorders end, reliable sources said.

It was the fourth straight day of disorders and U.S. authorities are telling the Vietnamese that "the patience of the American public is wearing out," one informant said.

At least 100 persons, 60 of them police and troops, were injured in the melee around the headquarters of the politically powerful national Buddhist organization.

Premier Huong's predecessor, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, was brought down by riots in August. But the rioting today exceeded the August riots in violence.

The Buddhist hierarchy declared open political war on Huong's government and demanded immediate release of demonstrators arrested previously. Huong showed no sign of giving in.

All American military personnel and civilians were warned to stay off the streets and to avoid crowds if they had to move about the city.

The High National Council, South Viet Nam's interim legislative assembly, scheduled a meeting Tuesday. It was considered possible that the council might remove Huong in hopes another government could muster enough support to end the political chaos. Otherwise it was feared the military would take control of the government again.

The violence broke out shortly after U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor left for Washington to review the situation in South Viet Nam with President Johnson. Taylor said he did not expect a political upheaval while he was away and that he was more concerned with the military danger from the Viet Cong Communists than the political crisis in Saigon.

Archer Rewarded For Soil Project

Tom Archer, a member of the Pickaway Soil Savers Conservation 4-H Club, was presented the John Deere Conservation Award last night during the annual Pickaway District SCS supper.

It marks the first time the award has been presented to a Pickaway County 4-H member.

Tom is the son of Don Archer, local SCS technician. He has been a member of the local club for the last three years.

His project this year illustrated how much prevents soil erosion. Other projects he has completed include making soil artificially and the comparison of soils by growing plants in them.

HE HAS utilized two of his projects by showing them in the Circleville School science fair and has twice won superior ratings for his efforts.

The local conservation club is one of the first to be formed in the state. Six years old, the organization has 24 members ranging from 10-years of age to college seniors.

Archer introduced club members during the annual meeting. Dick Bolender served as master of ceremonies.

The control and conservation of water was the main topic of the program.

A film of the small watershed conservancy districts in Fairfield County illustrated how farmers and urban dwellers worked together to solve their water problem.

The Upper Hocking Small Watershed Conservancy district was a pilot project for the entire country.

THE SOIL Conservancy Service, the Ohio Extension Service and the Army Engineers assisted in forming the district.

The watershed districts cover every facet of conservation — drainage, dry dams and water impoundments, farm ponds, strip cropping and contour farming.

Archer pointed out to those present there is a definite need for formation of such districts in Pickaway County. He noted that in recent years the area has experienced not only its worst floods, but also its most severe droughts.

Bazaar Winners Are Announced

Winners at the annual Berger Hospital Guild Bazaar were announced today.

Here is the list: Guild 45, centerpiece, Mrs. Genia Wilson; Guild 42, aluminum tree, Mrs. Harold Farmer; Guild 38, electric can opener, Mrs. T. D. Van Camp; Guild 41, coverlet, Dorothy Schillinger; Guild 31, coffee maker, Mrs. William Shockley; Guild 39, Afghan, Mrs. A. J. Fraas; Guild 43, small gold tree to Randy Gilmore and food basket to Phyllis Cupp; Guild 40, dresser set, Cleo Caudill; Guild 27, Christmas tree skirt, Mrs. James Wilson.

Bazaar officials today expressed thanks to the many persons who helped make this year's event a successful one.

13-Year-Old Tarlton Boy Is Injured

Ged Dresbach Jr. In 'Fair' Condition At Riverside Hospital

A 13-year-old Tarlton Youth was seriously injured yesterday evening when a go-cart he was operating was struck by a truck.

Listed in "fair" condition at Riverside Methodist Hospital, Columbus, is Ged A. Dresbach Jr.

Authorities there reported he suffered a skull fracture, a fractured left arm, numerous bruises and abrasions and damaged teeth.

Pickaway County Sheriff Walton W. Spangler said young Dresbach was traveling west on the Circleville-Tarlton road in front of a truck driven by Arnold Reichelderfer, 61, Tarlton.

REICHELDERFER had pulled to the left lane to pass the small vehicle. The youngster then allegedly made a turn into the path of the truck.

The go-cart and the youth were dragged approximately 60 feet before Reichelderfer could get the truck stopped.

Sheriff Spangler pointed out Reichelderfer was driving at a slow rate of speed at the time of the collision.

The Sheriff said today that although it is illegal to operate a go-cart on the highways, no citations have been made.

He noted that the accident will be referred to Pickaway County Juvenile authorities.

Woman Treated Following Fall

Nora Mae Wright, 42, Route 1, Stoutsville, was treated in the emergency room at Berger Hospital yesterday after she fell at home and lacerated her forehead.

Bradford Damron, 3, Route 8, Chillicothe, also received emergency care when he lacerated his left arm on the fender of a car.

Both were treated and released.

Martial Law

Earlier, the sergeant had been reported missing. Fifteen South Vietnamese troopers also were killed and nine wounded in the ambush.

The rioting began today at the Hong Lac school in which students striking against the government had barricaded themselves. When 150 unarmed soldiers assembled outside the school, about 200 students from another area scattered them with stones and their fists and chased them down side streets. One soldier was badly beaten.

Another student mob assembled at the national Buddhist pagoda and advanced on about 30 paratroopers armed with tear gas and bayonets. The paratroopers were ordered to retreat.

As the paratroopers drove off in trucks, groups of students swung down side streets, chasing about 50 riot police carrying wicker shields and batons. The police ran.

Three fire trucks drove up but the drivers went quickly into reverse as the students charged them. One truck was caught, its windshield smashed and its driver injured.

By noon, the students had cleared all police, troops and paratroopers from a seven-block area around the Buddhist headquarters.

The students set up barricades in front of the headquarters, battered a car and an ambulance and beat up an ambulance driver.

The paratroopers returned with reinforcements and tried to disperse the students. As about 200 paratroops, police and troops gathered, the students began spreading oil on the ground. When they started

Power Lack Due To Line Change

Several sections of Pickaway County were without electricity for various periods of time yesterday.

South-Central Rural Electric, officials said the lack of power was required by the changing of a transmission line at the firm's substation near the Stum & Dillard plant.

Townships affected to varying degrees were Circleville, Washington, Walnut and parts of Salt Creek and Pickaway. Several schools in these areas were dismissed around noon due to the change.

Police Units Elect Officers, Hear Talk by VA Counselor

Approximately 61 persons were present for a joint dinner meeting of the Fraternal Order of Police and Police Associates last night at the Pickaway Arms.

Dr. M. F. Hyde, counseling psychologist at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Chillicothe, was guest speaker. Another highlight was the election of officers for both the FOP and FOPA units.

The gathering consisted of regular members and invited guests. Special guests were the youngsters who rode on the FOP float at Pumpkin Show.

Dr. Hyde described his work at the VA hospital. He detailed operations of his Exit Unit Service there and the objectives sought in rehabilitation of psychiatric patients.

THE VETERAN psychologist described motivation from within the patient as one of the most important factors in rehabilitation. Various phases of counseling and ways of handling social barriers were other points mentioned.

Dr. Hyde commended several Pickaway County groups, including the local Red Cross Gray Ladies and pilot group here that is working toward the hiring of restored mental patients, for their helpful efforts at the Chillicothe hospital.

Turney Ross, Circleville Police sergeant, was re-elected president of the TOP. Chester Starkey was re-elected president of the FOPA.

City Patrolman Richard Anderson was elected FOP vice president. State Patrolman J. P. McCord was named secretary - treasurer and Patrolmen D. A. Aller and Victor Ralston trustees.

Elected to president Starkey's officer staff were Ellis Norman, vice president; Robert Good, secretary-treasurer; and George Steely, trustee.

James Shea, local veterans service officer, served as toastmaster. The next FOP-FOPA meeting has been scheduled for Dec. 17.

Women are working more and enjoying pay day less, complains the director of the U. S. Labor Department's Women's Bureau. Reason: a widening wage gap between the sexes. In 1963, she says, 45 per cent of all American women between ages 18 and 64 held jobs, but their earnings averaged slightly more than half of what men received for full-time work.

Complaints of wage differentials between men and women have led to legislation to protect the working girl. Equal-pay laws are in effect in 22 states. A federal statute requiring equal wages for "equal skill, effort and responsibility" became effective last June.

A provision in the civil rights act banning discrimination because of sex will take effect next July. But all the legislation in the world, it appears, cannot overcome completely the reluctance of male employers to place women in positions of high responsibility with salaries to match.

This is reflected in statistics which show that only half of one per cent of the nation's 32 million women workers earned more than $10,000 last year and only 3 per cent received more than $7,000.

In an opinion survey conducted a few years ago among 100 business executives — all male — career women came off worse than expected. The men rated them poor at supervising male employees, worse at supervising female employees, oversensitive to criticism, less forthright than men and lacking sound logic.

This is an ungentlemanly indictment, but perhaps the ladies will forgive it. They live longer than men, they control most of the nation's wealth and a majority of the vote, they spend 85 per cent of the money.

Under the circumstances, the least they can do is to let the downtrodden male go on thinking he's better at running things.

Watch Out for Holiday Gloom

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — There are always a few killjoys around on every holiday.

They can't stand the thought of mankind having an occasional day off from usual worries.

As Thanksgiving approaches, the cynics murmur, "The world's in a mess. What have I got to give thanks about? What has anybody?"

If you are one of these gloom spreaders, take heed. There's always something in life to be grateful for. Right now.

For example:

In a free country such as this, you have just as much right to feel glum as the other fellow does to feel happy. Nobody will arrest you for wearing a sour face.

Turkeys are not as large as ostriches. If they were, the problem of what to do with Thanksgiving dinner leftovers would be insuperable.

You don't have to face up to Santa Claus for another month, and you don't have to pay your Christmas bill until the first of the year.

The national elections are over, and you don't have to listen to political candidates point with pride and view with alarm.

The world is getting quieter. The Beatles appeared on two recent television network programs; both times they won less than top ratings.

If you take the family to church on Thanksgiving morning, you probably will have less trouble finding a parking place than the Pilgrims did in fending off Indians.

The season for fighting crabgrass is past. So is the hay fever season.

If you haven't been called in by now to explain your most recent income tax returns, the odds are that you won't be — at least before January.

In the Northern Hemisphere you are fairly safe for several months from snake bite, attacks by maddened sharks, and ambushes by preying octopuses.

It is easier to shave in the mornings, as — according to many barbers — your beard doesn't grow as fast now as it does in summer.

You don't have to fret so much about being caught in a riot. Most people don't enjoy rioting when the temperature drops below freezing.

About now the children start giving less trouble, figuring virtue will get its reward on Dec. 25.

You don't have to listen to the golfing nuts brag about their scores, as they have put away their clubs for the duration.

No one has dropped a hydrogen bomb in anger or by error.

Nothing to be grateful for this Thanksgiving?

Why, man, think it over. When you get tight down to it, you're riddled with blessings.

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

The Scioto Chapel Ladies Aid held its annual Thanksgiving Silver Tea at the Robtown EUB Church.

Miss Penny Sue Hoover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glyn E. Hoover, Route 3, became the bride of Mr. Laurence R. Dietrich, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Dietrich, W. Franklin St.

Ten local stores combined to provide a charge account service for local customers, known as "Shoppers Charge."

TEN YEARS AGO

Mrs. Leo Morgan, E. Franklin St., was hostess for the Child Culture League meeting.

A search continued for a pet bantam rooster owned by Mrs. A. B. Cooper, Ashville, which disappeared several days ago.

A countywide feeder cattle tour was scheduled to be held in Pickaway County.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A 50 cent turkey dinner was served by the Ladies Aid of Williamsport Methodist Church in the parish house.

A group of Circleville hunters planned to leave for Coudersport, Pa., for the deer hunting season.

Miss Katherine Moore, 134 E. Mill St., was appointed to the nursing staff at Berger Hospital.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

In the winter when the steam heat makes the inside air very dry, how can air be humidified to relieve the dryness and crusting of the nostrils?

Dryness and crusting of the nose must not be entirely blamed on steam heat. Very often underlying infections of the nose and the sinuses are more responsible than is the dryness of the air.

Allergies, too, are offenders and may cause an uncomfortable dryness.

Over-medication of the nose, continued long after a cold has subsided, is frequently a contributing factor.

The old-fashioned basin of water on the radiator helps to increase the humidity in the room.

There are many excellent commercial humidifiers and steam vaporizers with hot and cold steam which can keep the humidity at a comfortable level.

How does one choose a laxative? There are so many varieties of laxatives that a patient may become confused.

The key phrase in this question is that "a patient may become confused." If one is a patient of a physician, all confusion can be avoided by following his specific directions and choice of laxative.

Laxatives stimulate the bowel function in a number of ways, some are mild, others are irritating. Some are bulk-forming, and others are lubricants.

Individual needs require individual types of laxatives.

Far too many people use and become dependent on laxatives unnecessarily. Well-balanced diets with adequate stewed and fresh fruits and vegetables, and plenty of water, can often break the laxative habit.

There are no time clocks in the intestinal tract. There is no need for panic or undue concern if irregularity does occur.

Any change in the bowel habits for a prolonged period should be studied by the physician.

What is the best home remedy if it is suspected that someone has swallowed a poison?

When poisoning is suspected, call for medical help immediately. Many cities have a poison control center which will make an immediate suggestion when they are told the nature of the suspected poison.

Victims can usually benefit from being made to vomit. Baking soda or household salt in warm water may accomplish this. Placing a finger in the back of the throat will also help to induce vomiting. Keep the container of the suspected poison for rapid identification, so that the proper antidote can be given immediately.

Prevention, of course, should always be stressed. Clear your house of all potential poison hazards and keep them out of the reach of everyone who might not recognize their danger.

Tests of Napoleon's hair suggest he was killed by arsenic. The biggest mystery in this case is why it took so long to bring this to light.

Out of Necessity

By John Chamberlain

"Thank heaven," said the chairman of the board of an important roller bearing company, "for the balance of trade."

It was a cryptic remark, but when its implications are explored it becomes apparent that Lyndon Johnson's choices as President of the U.S. do not include an option for radical experimentation with the economy. He must try to keep things on a relatively even keel, lest inflation keep foreigners from buying our goods. Should the balance of trade turn drastically against us, the gold drain would get out of hand again, inflation would be magnified, a depression might ensue — and the Republicans would come roaring back in 1968.

Lyndon Johnson not only has a mandate to continue good times at present price levels; He is under absolute political necessity to do so. So where does this leave the Great Society? It leaves it in the hands of Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers, which is now headed by Gardner Ackley, a University of Michigan professor who did duty with the Office of Price Administration in World War II. Ackley follows in the footsteps of the recently departed Walter Heller, who thought the economy could be kicked along by periodic tax cutting without losing altitude. To this idea Lyndon Johnson added a promise that the budget would be kept within a hundred billion dollars a year. This was the voice of Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia speaking. Senator Byrd is still around to exercise a potent influence in the Senate, which means that LBJ's Great Society must be paid for within relatively narrow limits.

Naturally this is going to take some doing. LBJ wants new classrooms and teacher training programs and federally supported scholarships, which could mean a billion a year. He wants something for the eradication of poverty in Appalachia, something for aid to mass transportation, something for a magnified slum clearance program, and something for carting away and destroying all the rusty hulks in our used car dumps. Besides all this, there is Medicare, which, though it would be paid for by special levies outside the budget, would dry up some of the money accruing to individuals by way of excise tax cuts.

The idea, at one point, was to hack enough out of the military to pay for the programs of the Great Society and still keep the budget within relative balance close to the one hundred billion mark. Maybe all this can be done. But a lot hinges on the tax take, which, in turn, depends on the ability of the economy to keep going in high by virtue of tax cut stimulation. And a lot also hinges on price stability.

As Gardner Ackley sits down to commune with his Council of Economic Advisers to figure out ways of presenting LBJ with a hundred-billion-dollar Great Society, a fair number of hazards are looming up. One: the rank and file memberships of the unions are restive; they are threatening to break through the current wage "guidelines," or else. Two: prices are already straining upward; the aluminum companies have just put through some raises, and the steel companies are threatening to do the same. Three: on next April 15 a lot of taxpayers are going to make the unpleasant discovery that they owe more money to the federal government than they now suppose to be the case (the Treasury hasn't been withholding enough from most workers). Four: we face a revival of inventory instability somewhere along the line, particularly if there is a big race to beat a steel strike. Five: if the British tax on imports provokes reprisals, the volume of international trade will dip and America will be selling less abroad. Six: our housing boom has already peaked. Seven: there have been more bank failures this year than in any year since 1942. Bank liquidity is not what it was a short time ago, and the "easy money" policy of the Federal Reserve could fail to stimulate loans when there is a shortage of money to lend.

Lyndon Johnson is going to have an interesting four years. He wants to be a second FDR. But unless a war changes everything, his only visible choice is to try to be a Calvin Coolidge lest he turn out to be a Herbert Hoover. His mandate is to continue prosperity, and he could be torn to pieces if he fails.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE PROPRIETOR of a Washington restaurant feels himself qualified to print this analysis on the back of his menus: "If you like your eggs hard-boiled, you are persistent, dynamic, sincere; soft-boiled, gentle, patient, kind; medium-boiled, calm, cool, collected; poached, speedy, peppy, intelligent; scrambled, artistic, nervous, passionate; shirred, fastidious, romantic, sensitive; raw, overbearing, concealed."

I asked a prominent psychologist what he thought of the above. His answer: "Absolute hogwash."

A five-year-old boy came home from his first day at kindergarten. "How big is your class?" his mother asked him. With considerable disgust the manly lad replied, "Four other fellows, and about a half a million girls."

Barmates at a Yonkers pub salute a confrere whose dog promptly obeys the command, "Go take a walk and get back here in five minutes." What's more he's back in the pub, wagging his tail, exactly three hundred seconds later. Pressed for an explanation, the dog's owner points out, "He simply looks at the clock on City Hall." One customer refused to accept this explanation, however. "That's poppycock," he announced. "Dogs can't see that far."

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Wednesday, Nov. 25, the 330th day of 1964. There are 36 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1783, the British evacuated New York, their last military position in the United States. They had held the city for seven years and two months during the Revolutionary War.

On this date
In 1758, the British captured Ft. Duquesne, now Pittsburgh, in the French and Indian War.

In 1863, federal troops captured Missionary Ridge in the final day of the Battle Above the Clouds, at Lookout Mountain, Tenn.

In 1940, the first large Selective Service groups entered the Army.

In 1950, gales of almost hurricane proportions, with rain and snow, hit 22 states from the East Coast to the Middle West; 278 deaths were attributed to the storm.

Today's birthdays:
Former big league baseball star Joe DiMaggio is 50. Actress and former congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas is 64.

Thought for today:

Bound To Happen
LOUISVILLE (AP)—The last call sounded and passengers were loaded aboard a sleek airliner at Standiford Field.

Doors were locked and the ramps were wheeled away. A signal was flashed for the plane to take off but nothing happened.

The crew was still inside the terminal having coffee.

A turkey dinner was served at noon. In the afternoon Mrs. Frank White read the 95th Psalm and the Lords Prayer.

Mrs. Wilson Ross and Mrs. Ray Poling gave a talk on sewing and different items were shown to make for Christmas.

Those present were Mrs. George Reid, Mrs. Earl DeLong, Mrs. Burnell Karshner, Mrs. John Fortner and daughter, Mrs. Herman DeLong, Mrs. Ed Fetherolf, Mrs. Dale Daubenmire and son, Mrs. Denny Drumm, Mrs. Dorothy Hanes, Mrs. Adam Schaal, Mrs. Will Williams and Mrs. Roy Gerhardt and daughter.

Mr. Ray Poling was released Thursday from Berger Hospital where he had been for treatment.

Mrs. Millard Black was released Thursday from Berger Hospital where she had undergone surgery.

Mr. Earl DeLong was released Sunday from Berger Hospital where he was a surgical patient.

Mrs. Maude Walker of Hilliards was the weekend guest of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Sweepston.

Mrs. Hazel McNeal spent last weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kerns of Marietta Road.

Mrs. Hazel McNeal was Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carter. All were guests at a turkey dinner in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Immel of Kingston and they visited Mr. and Mrs. William McNeal and daughter, Diana of Kingston.

The World Today

By HARRY KELLY
FOR JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the capital's favorite guessing games is whether Hubert H. Humphrey's incandescent spirit will be obscured by Lyndon B. Johnson's long shadow.

Johnson himself knows the hazards. Like Humphrey he was one of the most celebrated personages on Capitol Hill, yet all but vanished as John F. Kennedy's vice president. "Whatever happened to Lyndon Johnson?" was the joke going the rounds then.

From the beginning, vice presidents had a lost feeling. The first, John Adams, felt he held "the most insignificant office that ever the invention of man contrived or his imagination conceived."

John Nance Garner, summing up his job in 1934, likened the vice presidency to a spare tire: as long as everything rolls smoothly, little attention is paid to it.

But even then a trend had begun to give the vice president more responsibilities and duties.

Herbert Hoover once said he was the first chief executive to enlarge the field of the vice president by having Charles Curtis attend Cabinet sessions "so he would know what was going on in the executive arm of the government, and would be better prepared to take over the presidency if needed."

Franklin D. Roosevelt delegated important administrative duties to Henry Wallace in World War II. Harry S. Truman made Alben W. Barkley a member of the National Security Council, where he participated in policy making.

Dwight D. Eisenhower had Richard M. Nixon represent him on various public occasions both at home and abroad, as well as having him join discussions of the Cabinet and National Security Council.

Kennedy enlarged the job a bit more, assigning Johnson to the chairmanship of the National Aeronautics and Space Council.

Now it is Hubert Horatio Humphrey's turn, and Johnson apparently has no intention of shunting him off into a corner. He has already proposed that the government establish an official residence for the vice president.

But from present indications and reports the President has enough work lined up for Humphrey that he will have little leisure time at home.

In addition to the other vice-presidential assignments, Johnson is said to want Humphrey to keep an eye on such departments as labor, agriculture and health, education and welfare, and to act as a lightning rod for ideas in government. He may also make use of the Minnesota's bright image abroad by giving him overseas missions.

If all this holds true, it doesn't seem likely anyone will be asking, "Whatever happened to Hubert Humphrey?"

6 The Circleville Herald, Wed. Nov. 25, 1964 Circleville, Ohio

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren Just Whistle!

DEAR ABBY: My husband chases everything in skirts. Two months ago he asked me for a divorce and I wouldn't give it to him. We have eleven children from 16 years old down to 18 months old. If he goes to a lawyer, he could never get a divorce because he has nothing on me. But I could divorce him on any grounds in the book because he has broken all the Ten Commandments and every City Ordinance and statute there is. The kids miss him. He was a lousy husband but a good father. How long does a man usually stay away? I'm afraid he's broke and hungry. Should I try to locate him? I've got the money; besides, I guess I still love him.

GLUTTON
DEAR GLUTTON: Just go outside and blow the dog whistle. If he's broke and hungry, he'll hear it and come home.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know what the shoe companies have against people with big feet, but I am getting very discouraged. I am a 15-year-old girl who wears a size 10D shoe, and I can't find a decent-looking pair of shoes in my size anywhere in this town. I have to order my shoes from a catalogue, and the only styles they make in my size are for old ladies. Can you, or any of your readers, help me, Abby?

TEN D
DEAR TEN: I'm probably putting my foot in it, but if I were in YOUR shoes, I'd hound the local shoe stores until they special-ordered the kind of shoes I wanted.

DEAR ABBY: I've been happily married for three months and this is the first time my husband has shown signs of having a violent temper. For a wedding gift, we got a "starter" set (service for four) of some expensive English dishes. I don't care for the pattern as it is much too fussy, so I use them for every day, hoping in time I'll break them so I won't look at them any more. My mother-in-law gave us a set of cheap dishes she got with coupons, which are very plain. I use them for company because it's service for 12.

I want to buy a good set of dishes but my husband can't understand why. He just paid $110 for a new gun (he has four guns) and I didn't say anything. We both work and pool our money. I'd rather have a happy husband than a new set of dishes, but I'd like to have both. How?

GLEND
DEAR GLEND: If it won't put a strain on your budget, treat yourself to a new set of dishes. But do it cautiously. I don't recommend irritating a husband who has both a violent temper and five guns.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, getting on in years, and I am not physically able to get around in the crowds any more. I am also on a limited budget, and all this Christmas shopping is too much trouble and expense to me. I wrote to several of my friends and relatives and asked them please to discontinue giving me Christmas gifts for the above reasons. I am now receiving unpleasant answers to my letters such as, "I don't give to get." Abby, I don't want to accept and not give in return. Was what I did so terrible?

KITTY
DEAR KITTY: I think you were more considerate than most people to announce beforehand that you did not intend to give gifts. Ignore the replies. They were unctuous and uncalled for.

Problems? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

GINGER MERINGUE — Smooth textured pumpkin pie topped with a delicious ginger meringue is a fine finale for a Thanksgiving dinner.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Preparing Thanksgiving dinner is apt to leave a creative cook frustrated, for it allows little room for innovation.

You can't tinker with the turkey recipe. That's treason, for every family has its own traditional favorite dressing. Vary it — even slightly — and you're offering cause for complaint.

Where can you introduce a note of novelty that will rate enthusiastic comment? With the dessert course! This is where pumpkin appears — but who says it has to appear in a plain pie?

Dress up the pie with a spectacular Ginger Meringue or bring it to the table glamorously decked with Orange Whipped Topping.

You might even serve your pumpkin in pudding. The Applesauce-Pumpkin Chiffon Pudding given here is luscious and light, a suitable grand finale for a fabulous feast.

PUMPKIN PIE WITH GINGER MERINGUE

- 1 1/2 c. sugar
- 1 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
- 1/2 tsp. each nutmeg, ginger, cloves, allspice
- 3/4 tsp. salt
- 1 1/2 c. canned pumpkin
- 3 eggs, separated
- 1 2-3 c. (large can) undiluted evaporated milk
- 1 (9-in.) unbaked pie shell
- 2 tbsp. chopped candied ginger

Mix together 1 c. sugar, spices and 1/2 tsp. salt. Blend in pumpkin and egg yolks. Stir in evaporated milk. Pour into pie shell.

Bake in hot oven, 425 degrees F., for 15 min.; reduce oven heat to moderate, 350 degrees F., and bake 40 min. longer.

Beat egg whites and remaining 1/2 tsp. salt until stiff but not dry. Gradually add remaining 1/2 c. sugar and beat until very stiff and glossy.

Spread meringue over cooked pie; sprinkle with candied ginger. Bake in very hot oven, 450 degrees F., for 5 min. Cool.

ORANGE WHIPPED TOPPING FOR PUMPKIN PIE

- 2-3 c. (small can) undiluted evaporated milk
- 2 tbsp. lemon juice
- 1/4 c. sugar
- 1 tsp. grated orange rind

Chill evaporated milk in refrigerator tray until soft ice crystals form around edges of tray (15 to 20 min.).

Whip until stiff (1 min.).

Add lemon juice; whip until very stiff (2 min.). Beat in sugar and grated orange rind.

APPLESAUCE-PUMPKIN CHIFFON PUDDING

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- 1/2 c. apple juice
- 2 c. canned applesauce
- 1 c. canned pumpkin
- 1/2 c. dairy sour cream
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1/4 c. sugar
- 1/2 tsp. ground cinnamon
- 1/4 tsp. ground nutmeg
- 1/4 tsp. ground cloves
- 1 c. evaporated milk
- 2 c. gingersnap crumbs
- 1-3 c. melted butter or margarine

Sprinkle gelatin into apple juice. Let stand 5 min. Place gelatin over low heat, stirring constantly until dissolved.

Add gelatin to applesauce, pumpkin, sour cream, salt, sugar and spices. Blend well.

Freeze evaporated milk until crystallized; beat until it holds soft peaks. Fold whipped milk into applesauce mixture.

Blend gingersnap crumbs with melted butter and stir to coat crumbs thoroughly.

Pour two-thirds of mixture into 8 x 8 x 2-in pan, press firmly with fingers, lining bottom evenly with crumb mixture.

Pour apple mixture into pan. Sprinkle with remaining crumbs. Chill until firm. Serves 6 to 8.

To unmold a gelatin preparation, just dip the bottom of the mold into hot water, invert and turn out. If this doesn't do the trick, loosen the top edge of the gelatin mixture with a small knife or spatula and then try again.

Touching Letters Flow To Mrs. Kennedy's Office

NEW YORK (AP) — "Even now we are so very interested in knowing how you and the children are getting along," the letter said.

"I suppose that so many of us feel that we would like to help protect you from any more heartache, to know that you and the children are safe and well, without invading upon your privacy."

The letter, from a woman in New Jersey, lay on top of a stack of the day's mail delivered to Mrs. John F. Kennedy's office on the 14th floor of a Park Avenue office building.

"We receive an average of 400 letters a day here," says Pamela Turnure, who was the former First Lady's press secretary at the White House.

"Generally they want Mrs. Kennedy to know she is still in their thoughts and how they felt about him. Some contribute to the John F. Kennedy Memorial library and some talk about the traveling exhibit of his mementoes.

"Others tell her about a memorial project they're planning and ask if she can participate. So far she hasn't done so.

But it's all extremely touching." Miss Turnure shares one of the office's four rooms with Nancy Tuckerman, formerly Mrs. Kennedy's White House social secretary.

Next to the large Turnure-Tuckerman office is one occupied by Helen Lempart, former secretary to White House aide Kenneth O'Donnell, who now takes care of private household matters for Mrs. Kennedy. She comes in several times a week to go through the mail and handle those requiring her personal attention.

"We have three regular full time volunteers," says Miss Turnure. "Others come in part-time. Altogether there are 15. They open and screen the letters, dividing them into categories. Some can be answered by a card of acknowledgement; sometimes form letters will do; others require more involved answers.

Corn Virus Under Study

WOOSTER, Ohio (AP) — American and Canadian scientists are meeting here to swap information on a virus threat to corn—a problem that could cost Ohio farmers $37.5 million a year, one scientist says.

The virus stunts the corn plant growth and reduces ear size.

More than 100 scientists from 32 states and Canada held closed-door conferences Monday at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station here. The meetings are sponsored by the station and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Dr. James M. Beattie, assistant director at the station, said overall damage in virus-affected Ohio fields averages 15 per cent.

The virus was discovered in Ohio in 1962. It hit 10,000 acres in the Scioto and Ohio River valleys last year. This year it was reported in nearly every Ohio county.

NEW YORK (AP) — Speedy defense is counted upon to protect the world's two most important currencies — the American dollar and the British pound.

And the speed with which the two nations moved after a speculative run started against the pound also is seen as a measure of the danger which such a run posed for the whole delicate balance of international finance.

London's move was drastic — a quick raising of the Bank of England's lending rate to 7 per cent from 5 per cent. Washington's move was moderate — an equally quick raising of the Federal Reserve's discount rate to 4 per cent from 3 1/2 per cent. This was a gesture of warning that the dollar would be defended from raiders rather than a real deterrent to any possible big loss of dollars overseas.

Higher interest rates at these basic levels is likely to mean higher borrowing costs in time through much of the economies of the two nations. And that in turn can dampen some business expansion, some consumer buying.

Neither is eager for that. The real aim is quite different. In London's case it is to halt the outflow of the pound sterling because imports too exports to a dangerous degree. In Washington's case it is to hold the outflow of dollars to a modest stream rather than a possible torrent.

That Britain's financial troubles should affect the cost of Americans doing business at home might seem far fetched. But the dollar and the pound are used as the standards of foreign exchange for most of the world's trade this side of the Iron Curtain. If the pound wobbles, the dollar can't escape entirely unscathed — nor can many of the other currencies of the world.

That probably is why Washington moved with unexpected speed, relying on the ounce of prevention of raising interest charges on short-term lending. That was to ward off any rush to ship American dollars to the high-yield London market.

Washington also sought to halt any fears that higher interest charges would choke off the current economic growth rate, as costly borrowing has been accused of doing in the past.

Stress is being laid on the large amount of investment funds available to finance consumer and business activities. This supply is counted upon to keep long-term interest rates from going up much if short-term ones do. And the Federal Reserve will let commercial banks seek still more investment funds by raising the interest they can pay on savings accounts held less than a year.

It may be some time before all these adjustments in interest rates are made. Banks may take their time about raising the charges on their loans to business firms or the interest paid on savings accounts. Prices of short-term securities will be adjusted to the new discount rate.

And even this new rate might have to be changed again if it doesn't work as expected and investment funds start flowing abroad in unhealthy volume.

But the speed and apparent accord with which the two leading financial nations acted may get the pound back on even keel and keep the dollar there.

Nuclear Force Hurt By Wilson

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson appears to have dealt a severe—if not fatal—blow to the proposed mixed nuclear fleet of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization by declaring Britain opposes the project.

Wilson told the House of Commons Monday his Labor government believes "a mixed manned surface fleet adds nothing to Western strength, is likely to cause dissipation of strength in the alliance and may add to the difficulties of East-West agreement."

On the surface, his statement puts London in stern opposition to Washington's plan at the very moment when it seemed to officials here that the new British government's interest in the fleet had given fresh cause for hope that, perhaps after some modification, it might be acceptable to a number of NATO allies.

U.S. officials were surprised at the flatness of Wilson's declaration, but there was some tendency to regard it as the opening move in a series of negotiations.

Wilson said he hopes to obtain in discussions with President Johnson here next month more extensive "consultation in the deployment and sharing of NATO's nuclear strength."

At the same time he declared, "We are irrevocably committed against more fingers on the (nuclear) trigger." London's aim, said Wilson, is to have the United States serve as the custodian of Western nuclear power.

The position Wilson outlined appears to leave little room for maneuver in an effort to reach accommodation with the strong positions already taken by the United States and West Germany in favor of the proposed 25-ship fleet. Armed with Polaris nuclear missiles, it would be jointly controlled by participating nations and they would share the cost and provide the personnel for the vessels.

Wilson's statement came as Secretary of State Dean Rusk and West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder were starting two days of consultation on U.S.-German and NATO problems, centering around the multilateral force — MLF — plan.

Neither the State Department nor Schroeder reacted publicly to what Wilson said. Privately U. S. officials said that on this issue Wilson's stated position is close to that of French President Charles de Gaulle. Paris' position is that the West Germans must choose between closer ties with France and closer ties with the United States on MLF.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's grocery counters should present a picture of abundance this week as the Thanksgiving season gets under way.

Turkey continues to hold the spotlight. Prices are even more attractive than usual. One large supermarket chain is selling the birds at 2 to 4 cents a pound below last year's level at its New York City area outlets.

Turkey at these stores was listed at 31 cents a pound for 18-24 lb. birds; 35 cents a pound for 10-18 lbs. sizes; and 39 cents a pound for smaller birds.

Ham, ribs of beef, chicken and pork roasts also rate attention at many meat counters.

Among vegetables, brussels sprouts, cucumbers, squash, Boston lettuce, onions, celery, radishes and turnip greens will be generally abundant in most areas of the country.

Fresh cranberries will be most plentiful in the Midwest and Southeast.

Other attractively priced fruits include apples, emperors grapefruits and avocados.

Political Weight Used For Educational Goals

By G.K. HODENFIELD

WASHINGTON (AP) — Obedient to the ancient adage, "If you can't lick 'em, join 'em," American teachers are throwing their academic caps into the political arena.

Item — In Arkansas, Gov. Orval E. Faubus was running scared in his re-election bid against the challenge of Winthrop Rockefeller. Faubus pledged a minimum average teacher salary raise of $1,000. The Arkansas Education Association, which had fought Faubus in the past, supported him and helped him win.

Item — Utah teachers formed the Utah Council for the Improvement of Education, raised thousands of dollars, campaigned hard and long, and helped elect a governor pledged to recommend the appropriation of millions of dollars of state aid to the schools. In addition, 11 educators won seats in the Utah Legislature.

All across the country, the teachers who once stayed aloof from partisan politics are throwing their vote-getting weight around with a vengeance. There are nearly two million of them, they're well-organized, and they have learned that politics can be a completely respectable activity.

Generally speaking, teachers have limited their politicking to educational issues. They must also be careful not to endanger the tax-exempt status of their organizations.

Not everyone, however, is ready to accept this new teacher activity.

In Knoxville, Tenn., there were protests by city officials when teachers became involved in an effort to defeat a local referendum which would, and did, cut school revenues.

They were told it was against the city charter for city employees to participate in such activity.

The National Education Association immediately protested

Apartment House Collapses, 15 Hurt

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A three-story brick apartment building collapsed Tuesday with an explosive sound that was heard and felt more than half a mile away. At least 15 persons were injured; four of them children.

Two children were missing and presumed buried under the rubble.

Prelaunch tests were given to Nimbus, the weather satellite, included shaking it vigorously, freezing it and roasting it by a turn.

and promised to help the teachers fight any restrictions on their political freedom.

It's a fact of American life that the administration of public education is largely political — from the local school boards through the state departments of education to the U.S. Office of Education.

The nation is spending $23 billion for public schools alone this school year, and the cost will go up.

When you have that kind of money involved in any public activity, you automatically have politics.

Information Of Interest To Veterans

(Veterans and their dependents who may have any questions concerning any benefits from the Veterans Administration should bring their questions to James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer. His office is located in the basement of the County Court House.)

The reopening of GI insurance won't take effect until May 1, 1965, and veterans may not make application until then, if eligible, said James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer.

Meanwhile, Shea, continued, we realize that many of veterans have questions about this new law, what is provided, and what must be done to apply. As a result, the VA has prepared a single sheet general information issue called "The New Insurance Law" which is available at the veteran's request.

If any veteran in Pickaway County wants this information sheet, Shea concluded, either phone, write, or come in person to my office in the basement of the county courthouse.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF CIRCLEVILLE

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to call of its directors, a special meeting of the shareholders of The First National Bank of Circleville will be held at its banking house at 102 East Main Street in the city of Circleville, State of Ohio on Monday, December 7, 1964 at 10:00 A. M., for the purpose of considering and determining by vote whether an agreement to merge the said bank and The Scioto Bank, located in village of Commercial Point, State of Ohio, under the provisions of the laws of the United States shall be ratified and confirmed, subject to the approval of the Comptroller of the Currency, Washington, D. C., and for the purpose of voting upon any other matters incidental to the proposed merger of the two banks. A copy of the aforesaid agreement, executed by a majority of the directors of each of the two banks providing for the merger, is on file at the bank and may be inspected during business hours.

George P. Foreman
President
Nov. 5, 12, 19, 26, Dec. 3.

WASHINGTON (AP) — For Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, the most poignant moment of the day John F. Kennedy was assassinated came when she saw Mrs. Kennedy—"that immaculate woman" in a stained dress with her gloves caked with her husband's blood.

The new First Lady said to Jacqueline Kennedy. "You know we never even wanted to be vice president now, dear God, it's come to this."

Mrs. Johnson, soon after the tragedy, dictated her impressions into a tape recorder "primarily as a form of therapy — to help me over the shock and horror."

When the presidential commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren began its investigation, the First Lady sent the commission a transcript of what she had dictated. This was included with the detailed testimony not immediately published when the commission's report was issued Sept. 27. A copy of the transcript now has been obtained by The Associated Press.

Mrs. Johnson and the then vice president rode two cars behind the presidential automobile. Her account said: "We were rounding a curve, going down a hill, and suddenly there was a sharp loud report — a shot. It seemed to me to come from the right, above my shoulder, from a building. Then a moment and then two more shots in rapid succession. There had been such a gala air that I thought it must be firecrackers or some sort of celebration. Then, in the lead car, the Secret Service men were suddenly down."

"I heard over the radio system, 'Let's get out of here,' and our Secret Service man who was with us, Ruf (Rufus) Youngblood, I believe it was, vaulted over the front seat on top of Lyndon, threw him to the floor and said, 'Get down.'"

Sen. Yarborough and I ducked our heads. The car accelerated terrifically fast — faster and faster. Then suddenly they put on the brakes so hard that I wondered if they were going to make it as we wheeled left and went around the corner. We pulled up to a building. I looked up and saw it said 'Hospital.' Only then did I believe that this might be what it was. Yarborough kept on saying in an excited voice, 'Have they shot the president?' I said something like, 'No; it can't be.'"

The occupants of the vice presidential car got out. "I cast one last look over my shoulder and saw, in the presidents car, a bundle of pink, just like a drift of blossoms, lying on the back seat. I think it was Mrs. Kennedy lying over the president's body."

The Johnsons went into the hospital. People came and went. "Through it all, Lyndon was remarkably calm and quiet. Every face that came in, you searched for the answers you must know. I think the face I kept seeing it on was the face of Kenny O'Donnell, who loved him so much."

"It was Lyndon as usual who thought of it first, although I wasn't going to leave without doing it. He said, 'You had better try to see if you can see Jackie and Nellie.' — wife of Gov. John B. Connally of Texas, who was seriously wounded. 'We didn't know what had happened to John. I asked the Secret Service men if I could be taken to them. They began to lead me up one corridor, back stairs, and down another.'"

"Suddenly I found myself face to face with Jackie in a small hall. I think it was right outside the operating room. You always think of her — or someone like her — as being insulated, protected; she was quite alone. I don't think I ever saw anyone so much alone in my life. I went up to her, put my arms around her and said something to her. I'm sure it was something like, 'God, help us all,' because my feelings for her were too tumultuous to put into words."

"And then I went in to see Nellie. ... I hugged her tight and we both cried and I said, 'Nellie, it's going to be all right.' And Nellie said, 'Yes, John's going to be all right.' "Then I turned and went back to the small white room where Lyndon was." Malcolm Kilduff, assistant presidential press secretary, and Kenney O'Donnell were coming and going. "I think it was Kenny's face and Kennedy's voice that I first heard the words, 'The president is dead.'"

"Mr. Kilduff entered and said to Lyndon, 'Mr. President.' The Johnsons went to the airport. "I looked up at a building and there already was a flag at half-staff. I think that is when the enormity of what had happened first struck me."

Arrangements were made for Johnson to take the oath of office as president.

"Mrs. Kennedy had arrived by this time and the coffin, and there — in the very narrow con-finer of the plane with Jackie on his left with her hair falling in her face, but very composed, and then Lyndon, and I was on his right, Judge "Sarah" Hughes with the Bible in front of her and a cluster of Secret Service people and the congressmen we had known for a long time — Lyndon took the oath of office."

"We all sat around the plane. We had at first been ushered into the main private presidential cabin on the plane — but Lyndon quickly said, 'No, no, no,' and immediately led us out of there; we felt that is where Mrs. Kennedy should be. The casket was in the hall. I went in to see Mrs. Kennedy and, though it was a very hard thing to do, she made it as easy as possible."

"She said things like, 'Oh, Lady Bird it's good we've always liked you two so much.' She said, 'Oh, what if I had not been there? I'm so glad I was there.'"

"I looked at her. Mrs. Kennedy's dress was stained with blood. Her right glove was caked — that immaculate woman — it was caked with blood, her husband's blood. She always wore gloves like she was used to them. I never could. Somehow that was one of the most poignant sights, exquisitely dressed and caked in blood. I asked her if I couldn't get someone to help her change, and she said, 'Oh, no. Perhaps later I'll ask Mr. Gallagher, a secretary, but not right now.'"

"She said a lot of other things like, 'What if I had not been there? Oh, I'm so glad I was there,' and a lot of other things that made it much easier for us of how we felt. I said, 'Oh, Mrs. Kennedy, you know we never even wanted to be vice president and now, dear God, it's come to this.'"

LBJ Tells Warren Commission Of Bitter Concern for Widow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sense of sickening shock, the "sharp, painful and bitter concern for the heroic lady widowed by the assassin's bullets," the sad, hurried steps to assure continuity in the nation's leadership.

These are recounted by President Johnson in a statement given to the Warren Commission investigating the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Johnson's account of the dark day in Dallas last Nov. 22 was given to the Warren Commission in the form of a statement last July. It was incorporated in one of the volumes of testimony on which the commission based its report last Sept. 27. Now some of the supporting volumes of evidence have just become available to The Associated Press.

The about-to-be president had little opportunity to see what was going on when the shots from Lee Harvey Oswald's rifle ripped into Kennedy and Texas Gov. John B. Connally, two cars ahead of Johnson's car. A Secret Service agent was sitting on top of him.

As Johnson tells it:

"I was startled by the sharp report, or explosion, but I had no time to speculate as to its origin because agent (Rufus) Youngblood turned in a flash immediately after the first explosion, hitting me on the shoulder and shouted to us all in the back seat to get down."

Mrs. Johnson and Texas Sen. Ralph Yarborough were riding with Johnson in the back seat.

"I was pushed over by agent Youngblood. Almost in the same moment in which he hit, or pushed me, he vaulted over the back seat and sat on me. I was bent over under the weight of agent Youngblood's body toward Mrs. Johnson and Sen. Yarborough. I remember attempting to turn my head to make sure that Mrs. Johnson had bent down. Both she and Sen. Yarborough had crouched down at agent Youngblood's command."

It was at 1:20 p. m., that Johnson learned from Kenneth O'Donnell, a Kennedy aide, that he had succeeded to the presidency.

"He told us that the president had died," Johnson said. "I think his precise words were, 'He's gone.'"

"I found it hard to believe that this had happened. The whole thing seemed unreal, unbelievable. A few hours earlier I had breakfast with John Kennedy; he was alive, strong, vigorous. I could not believe now that he was dead. I was shocked and sickened."

O'Donnell tried to get Johnson to leave for Washington immediately, but when Johnson learned that Mrs. Kennedy would not leave the hospital without Kennedy's body, he refused to go.

"I did not want to go and leave Mrs. Kennedy in this situation," Johnson said. "I said so, but I agreed we would board the airplane and wait until Mrs. Kennedy and the president's body were brought aboard the plane."

At the presidential plane, Johnson and his wife were shown into the private quarters. "It didn't seem right for John Kennedy not to be there," said Johnson, who had flown to Texas in another plane. "I told someone we preferred for Mrs. Kennedy to use these quarters."

"Shortly after we boarded the plane I called Robert Kennedy, the president's brother and attorney general. I knew how grief-stricken he was and I wanted to say something that would comfort him. Despite his shock, he discussed the practical problems at hand — problems of special urgency because we did not at that time have any information as to the motivation of the assassination or its possible implications."

"The attorney general said he would like to look into the matter of whether the oath of office as president should be administered to me immediately or after we returned to Washington, and that he would call back."

"I thereafter talked with Mr. George Bundy and Walter Jenkins, both of whom urged that the return to Washington not be delayed. I told them I was waiting for Mrs. Kennedy and for the president's body to be placed on the plane and would not return prior to that time."

"As I remember, our conversation was interrupted to allow the attorney general to come back on the line. He said that the oath should be administered to me immediately, before taking off for Washington, and that it should be administered by a judicial officer of the United States. Shortly thereafter, Mr. Kazenbach, dictated the form of the oath to one of the secretaries aboard the plane."

"I thought of Sarah Hughes, an old friend, who is judge of the U.S. District Court in Dallas. We telephoned Judge Hughes' office. She was not there but she returned the call in a few minutes and said she would be at the airplane in 10 minutes."

"A few minutes later Mrs. Kennedy and the president's coffin arrived. Mrs. Johnson and I spoke to her. We tried to comfort her, but our words seemed inadequate. She went into the private quarters of the plane. I estimate that Mrs. Kennedy and the coffin arrived about a half-hour after we entered the plane, just after 2 o'clock."

"About a half-hour later I asked someone to find out if Mrs. Kennedy would stand with us during the administration of the oath. Mrs. Johnson went back to be with her. Mrs. Kennedy came and stood with us during the moments that the oath was being administered. "I shall never forget her bravery, nobility and dignity." The plane then took off.

MOORE'S

Visit Our Toyland
Complete Selection

115 S. COURT ST

To All Good Children of Pickaway County:

Dear Children:

I've made an advance visit to Moore's in Circleville just to see if they have a nice selection of toys for you. I have put samples of all my toys in their store and you make your selection when you visit the store.

I was so pleased to see all my toys so nicely shown. Mrs. Santa and my helpers have worked all year and I think this year our toys are the best yet.

There were trains and all the accessories, road racers, all sorts of games, Teddy Bears, doll houses, dishes, chemistry sets, microscope sets and I could go on and on. For the girls there are those life size sinks, cabinets and stoves. They looked so nice and ready to use.

I do want you to bring Mother, Dad, Grandmother and Grandfather in to see these samples so you won't be disappointed on Christmas Eve. I want all my boys and girls to have a joyous Christmas.

I also noticed Moore's had gifts for grown folks too, and all at discount prices.

They are open each day and Friday and Saturday night until 9 o'clock.

I want you to have the best Christmas you have ever had and get the toys you really want most.

I wish I could greet each of you but this is a big world with a lot of boys and girls so;

Producers Fail To Put Heston in 20th Century

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Charlton Heston, who likes it here, is making his first all-California movie since "The Big Country" seven years ago.

He would like to spend more time in the land of his adoption, but he has this problem. Producers don't see him as a 20th century man.

"All the good modern parts go to Jack Lemmon and Cary Grant," he laments.

"That leaves Heston with pictures like 'The Ten Commandments,' 'Ben-Hur,' 'El Cid' and 'The Agony and the Ecstasy.'"

Feel like shedding tears for poor Chuck Heston?
Me neither.

Heston admits he has a pretty good thing going for him. If this be type-casting, he's making the most of it.

Right now he's back in the 11th century, the era of "El Cid." This time he's a bit north, playing a Norman warrior in "The War Lord." The film has been shot on location near Marysville, Calif., and is now working at Universal City, where a feudal tower has been constructed inside a stage and on the back lot.

Cost of "The War Lord": $5 million.

The 11th century is lucky for Heston. "El Cid" provided more income for him than any other film. "Ben-Hur" and "The Ten Commandments" are two of the three all-time money-makers, but not for him; he didn't share in the profits.

On the other side of the ledger is the unreleased "Major Dundee," for which he returned his $200,000 salary as justification for his arguments over the script. He has no regrets over his decision.

Look Into My Eyes, Turkey!

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The American Institute of Hypnosis, in a burst of Thanksgiving spirit, has some advice that should make turkeys grateful until they die — if turkeys will excuse the expression.

The institute says you should hypnotize the birds before you kill them.

Dr. William J. Bryan Jr. explains that the method is both more humane and conducive to better-tasting turkey.

Bryan, the institute's executive director, explains that turkeys, just like people, get overwrought when faced with violence and their suprenal glands pump out energy-giving adrenalin to help them meet the demands of the crisis.

Thus, turkeys that meet violent deaths while in a state of panic will have adrenalin in their blood. This makes them less tasty, says Bryan.

According to Bryan, here's some suggestions on how to mesmerize your gobble:

1. Hold the bird to the ground, talking softly to it. Press its head gently to the ground and draw a straight chalk line away from its beak. The turkey will remain motionless — it says here.

New, but Old

KEY WEST Fla. (AP) — Mrs. Glenn Altland of Key West has just made a new dress. At least, you could call it that. You could also say it's over 50 years old.

Mrs. Altland used a dress length bought in 1913 by an aunt. The aunt was killed in an automobile accident a short time later and the material was tucked away in a cedar chest.

Only recently was it discovered and put to use.

2. Do Step 1 but use white string instead of chalk.

3. Tuck the bird's head under its wing. It will go to sleep. Yes, you'll have to take the head out again to chop it off, but the bird will be in a better mood.

4. Put your hand over its eyes. The turkey, being among the least intellectual of birds, will think it's nighttime and go to sleep.

Dr. Bryan did not comment on what to do if, say, you're a commercial poultry raiser. You'd get pretty sick of running around playing peek-a-boo with 10,000 or so birds, and you could go broke buying chalk.

Soldier Lost In Viet Cong Convoy Hit

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A U.S. Army sergeant was missing Tuesday as a Viet Cong ambush overran a government convoy 2 miles east of Saigon.

The Communist guerrillas killed 15 Vietnamese soldiers and wounded nine others, hitting the convoy with intense automatic weapons fire.

U.S. military spokesmen said two U.S. helicopters fired rockets and shells at Viet Cong muzzle flashes but could not see the attackers. One helicopter crewman got a bullet wound in the wrist.

The Communists destroyed two armored cars, a heavy truck and one jeep.

In Saigon, students in three secondary schools staged antigovernment riots behind barricaded gates today, creating tension in the city for the third straight day.

Computer Makes Electronic Goof

PROVO, Utah (AP) — If a computer can be embarrassed the Brigham Young University electronic brain should be blushing.

Once a year the computer makes matches for a dance, pairing boys and girls with similar interests.

Bonnie Mitchell, 18, Provo, a red-haired freshman, asked for a tall boy with dark hair and blue eyes, who likes entertainment and looks on marriage favorably.

The male picked for her by the computer from BYU's 15,500 students was tall, had asked for a date with a red-haired girl, likes entertainment and looks on marriage favorably.

He was Richard Mitchell, 19, Bonnie's brother. Bonnie went to the weekend dance with Richard and said she had an "interesting" time.

Mrs. Kennedy Would Wonder Could She Have Saved Him?

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the anguished aftermath of the assassination, President John F. Kennedy's young widow was deeply troubled for a time by a thought that she might have saved him.

It occurred to her that if she had happened to be looking at her husband when the assassin opened fire, she might have been able to pull him down out of the path of the fatal bullet. He was hit twice, the second bullet taking his life.

Evidently she finally reached the conclusion that this might have been could not really have happened, because in telling the Warren Commission about it she employed the past tense "I used to think."

Mrs. Kennedy gave her testimony June 5 at what was then her Georgetown home to Chief Justice Earl Warren and the counsel of the Warren Commission, J. Lee Rankin. The then Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy was present.

The testimony was included in the volumes of evidence on which the Warren Commission made its report Sept. 27. Some of these volumes have just become available to The Associated Press.

While several witnesses have spoken of Mrs. Kennedy's remarkable self-control during the tragic Nov. 22 in Dallas, her testimony disclosed how deeply she was shocked. She said, for example, she has no recollection of crawling toward the back of the presidential automobile, as pictures show her doing.

Essential portions of Mrs. Kennedy's statement, after she described the beginning of the motorcade in Dallas:

Mrs. Kennedy: "Mrs. Connally, wife of Gov. John B. Connally of Texas," said, "We will soon be there." We could see a tunnel in front of us. Everything was really slow then. And I remembered thinking it would be so cool under that tunnel."

The car moved toward the overpass.

"That is when she (Mrs. Connally) said to President Kennedy, 'You certainly can't say that the people of Dallas haven't given you a nice welcome.'"

"I think he said — I don't know if I remember it or if I have read it — 'No, you certainly can't,' or something. And you know then the car was very slow and there weren't very many people around.

"You know, there is always noise in a motorcade and there are always motorcycles beside us, a lot of them backfiring. So I was looking to the left. I guess there was a noise, but it didn't seem like any different noise really because there is so much noise, motorcycles and things. But then suddenly Gov. Connally was yelling, 'Oh, no, no, no!'"

Rankin: "Did he turn toward you?"

Mrs. Kennedy: "No; I was looking this way, to the left, and I heard these terrible noises, you know. And my husband never made any sound. So I turned to the right and all I remember is seeing my husband, he had this sort of quizzical look on his face, and his hand was up, it must have been his left hand. And just as I turned and looked at him, I could see a piece of his skull and I remember it was flesh colored. I remember thinking he just looked as if he had a slight headache, and I just remember seeing that. No blood or anything."

"And then he sort of did this (indicating), put his hand to his forehead and fell in my lap."

"And then I just remember falling on him and saying, 'Oh, no, no, no!' I mean, 'Oh my God, they have shot my husband.' And 'I love you, Jack,' I remember I was shouting. And just being down in the car with his head in my lap. And it just seemed an eternity."

"You know, there were pictures later on of me climbing out the back. But I don't remember that at all."

Rankin: "Do you remember Mr. Hill (Secret Service agent Clinton J. Hill) coming to try to help you on the car?"

Mrs. Kennedy: "I don't remember anything. I was just down like that."

"And finally I remember a voice behind me, or something, and then I remember the people in the front seat, or somebody, finally knew something was wrong, and a voice yelling, which must have been Mr. Hill, 'Get to the hospital!' or maybe it was Mr. Kellerman (Roy H. Kellerman, Secret Service agent who was riding next to the driver), in the front seat. But someone yelling. I was just down and holding him."

At this point in the transcript appear the words "reference to wounds deleted." This is one of the very few omissions noted in the transcript.

Rankin: "Do you have any recollection of whether there were one or more shots?"

Mrs. Kennedy: "Well, there must have been two because the one that made me turn around was Gov. Connally yelling. And it used to confuse me because first I remembered there were three and I used to think my husband didn't make any sound when he was shot. And Gov. Connally screamed."

"And then I read the other day that it was the same shot that hit them both. But I used to think if I only had been looking to the right I would have seen the first shot hit him, then I could have pulled him down and then the second shot would not have hit him."

"But I heard Gov. Connally yelling and that made me turn around, and as I turned to the right my husband was doing this (indicating with hand at neck). He was receiving a bullet. And those are the only two I remember."

"And I read there was a third shot. But I don't know. Just those two."

"And I was down in the car and everyone was yelling to get to the hospital and you could hear them on the radio, and then suddenly I remembered a sensation of enormous speed, which must have been when we took off."

CHS Cagers Set To Open Friday With Chillicothe

GAME STRATEGY — Circleville High School Coach Don Neff, (left) and John Thomas, veteran forward for the Tigers, discuss the coming cage season. The opening game will be Friday in the CHS gymnasium against Chillicothe.

The 1964-65 edition of the Circleville High School basketball team will officially open its season this weekend with a tough twin bill.

On Friday the local quintet will host Chillicothe and on Saturday they travel to Lancaster. Both the Cavaliers and the Gales are members of the Central Ohio League.

Chillicothe has only one seasoned competitor returning in Bruce Bunch, an all COL guard selection last year. Corky Miller, Cavalier coach, also has Dave Senff returning at the guard position.

But he is faced with the prospect of replacing seven graduated lettermen, five of whom are currently playing freshman basketball in the college of their choice.

THE Cavaliers posted a 14-9 overall record last year compared to Circleville's 3-17 slate.

The Cavalier coach and Don Neff, CHS mentor, are both graduates of Unioto High School and Ohio University. Good friends when their teams are not playing each other, they have played basketball together many times.

Lancaster reportedly has good height but not too much speed.

The Red and Black squad will be experienced. John Thomas, a 6-foot senior forward, last year led the Tigers in almost every department — total scoring, field goal per centage, rebounding.

He is expected to once again pace the Tiger offense, although Neff is counting on additional rebounding strength from Doug Roth, the 6-4 center and Doug Price, 6-1, who can out jump anybody on the team.

Additional scoring punch for the Red and Black should come from John Maxwell, Chet Iery and Tim Stonerock.

RON SEWARD and Jim Diltz are expected to give plenty of help at the guard position, although both are small in stature.

Rounding out the 11-man squad are Roger Grigg, a 5-11 junior guard; Dave Iery, 5-10, a junior guard, and Tim Adams, 6-1, a junior forward.

In preseason scrimmages the Tigers have looked good, according to Neff. They captured the scoring edge against Jackson and Logan.

At Portsmouth, although the Red and the Black eventually saw the tough Ohio River city squad pull ahead, the Tiger mentor reports his charges held their own for much of the scrimmage.

Circleville's 3-17 record last year was far from impressive. But the Tigers could be a definite contender for the South Central Ohio League title this year.

Last year's champion — Pleasant View — is competing in a different circuit — the South Suburban League.

PERENNIAL strong Wilmington has no returning starters. The Hurricane has two lettermen and the balance of the crew is made up of last year's reserve team, plus several older boys who did not play the past season.

The two Highland County SCO schools, Hillsboro and Greenfield were hit hard by graduation. Both will lack height.

Washington C. H. although sporting a veteran roster of eight seniors and four juniors, also lacks tall players for the front line. In addition, All-League guard Tommy Townsend has transferred to Miami Trace.

The Trace Panthers, under new head coach Jon Wildermuth, have already been tabbed as the pre-season favorite by other coaches around the league.

Boasting an abundance of height, the Miami Tracers also have plenty of speed. Wildermuth has five boys who are 6-3 or over, with four more who range between 6-0 and 6-2. Only three boys all guards, are less than 6-0.

Trace opens its season tonight hosting Pleasant View. Washington will host Madison South Saturday in a first game, while Wilmington is at Xenia. Greenfield McClain plays at Dayton Stivers Saturday.

Mid-American Names Stars

Simrell, Rivers Are Week's Best

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Toledo's outstanding quarterback, Dan Simrell, and Jamie Rivers of Bowling Green, are the Mid-American Conference's Back and Lineman of the Week.

Simrell, one of the shining bright spots in a drab Toledo season, battled biting 15-degree cold and a 15-mile-an-hour wind last Saturday as the Rockets bowed to Tulsa, 39-16.

The Toledo dandy, also handicapped by a severely lacerated hand, completed 15 of 31 passes for 179 yards and one touchdown. The 6-foot-3, 180-pound senior set several Toledo school records with his performance and also established a MAC single game completion record, season completions and the total offense mark.

One of his 15 completions was a 61-yard touchdown strike to end Larry Sargent. It marked the ninth time this season that Simrell had been nominated for back of the week honors.

Rivers, called by coach Doyt Perry "the best sophomore end in BG history," played a starring role in the Falcons 35-7 conquest of Xavier.

The 6-2, 210-pound product of Youngstown went both ways and contributed eight tackles and seven assists. He also battled down four passes and continually harassed the Xavier quarterback.

Olympic Skier Gets Best Amateur Vote

DENVER (AP)—Skier Jim Heuga of the University of Colorado has been designated the area's outstanding amateur athlete by the Rocky Mountain Amateur Athletic Union.

Heuga was voted the Robert Russell Memorial Award for 1964.

Heuga was third in the slalom at the Winter Olympics in Innsbruck and also placed in other skiing events overseas.

The Baltimore Clippers of the American Hockey League is the top farm club for the New York Rangers.

PRESCRIPTION DRUGS

Q. Why can't I buy certain drugs without a prescription? Isn't this some kind of conspiracy between the druggist and the doctor?

A. Yes, you might call it a conspiracy — a conspiracy to protect your health! Certain drugs are labeled: "Federal Law Prohibits Dispensing Without Prescription." This "prescription legend" signifies that the drug is potent enough to require the judgment of a licensed medical practitioner to authorize its use by the patient and to determine the dosage to be taken, the frequency of administration, the length of time it is to be used, and the advisability of repeated administration. The pharmacist is the legal custodian of such drugs and it is the pharmacist who is responsible for compliance with the law. Patients sometimes embarrass their pharmacist by insisting that they be allowed to purchase a "prescription legend" drug without a prescription or that he refill their prescription for such a drug without the doctor's approval. In refusing, your pharmacist is complying with the law, and he does so to protect you.

Remember — the diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician.

At this Pharmacy, the dispensing of prescribed medicine is a personal service rendered with true professional interest in the health problem of the individual.

Double Helping of Picks Dished Up for Football

NEW YORK (AP) — This is the week of double helpings in everything — even college football.

So for a final whirl along the edge of Upset Gulch while balancing the crystal ball on a denuded drumstick.

Thursday

Alabama over Auburn: Neither team has its ace quarterback, Joe Namath for Alabama and Jimmy Sidle of Auburn, in the best condition for this titanic finale. Alabama has the greater number of reserves plus the stingiest defense.

Texas over Texas A&M: Because Tommy Nobis and Ernie Koy play for Texas.

Tulsa over Wichita: Jerry Rhone rewrites the record book in passing.

Saturday

Navy over Army: An unprecedented sixth straight triumph for the sailors over the soldiers. All of Roger Staubach's Navy playmates have healed while Army quarterback Rolfe Stichweh will have to operate behind a patched up line.

Notre Dame over Southern California: Michigan State clobbered Southern California and got clobbered by Notre Dame. The Irish finish the year unbeaten.

Georgia Tech over Georgia: A spot for an upset.

Top Lineman Almost Quit

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Jack Shineholser, Associated Press Lineman of the Week, wanted to quit four years ago when Florida State hadn't shaken the tag of girls' school, wasn't winning, had never beaten archrival Florida and was playing in the second ranks of college football.

Wildcats Drop Tilt, 52-51

The Laurelville Wildcats dropped a thrilling 52-51 basketball game last night at Frankfort High School.

Paced by Rick Unger's 27 points, the Wildcats were outscored 16-5 in the third quarter. They lost the game at the foul line where they were able to capitalize on only nine of 15 chances while the host team dunked 14 of 22 at the line.

From the field, the losers hit 24 per cent of their attempts, while the winners connected on 31 per cent of their shots.

The Laurelville reserves won the preliminary tilt in a double overtime by a 46-44 score.

Friday, the Wildcats will host Kingston.

Starr's Play Gains NFL Recognition

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Bart Starr is no riverboat gambler. The Green Bay quarterback usually follows the book right out the window. But he took a chance Sunday and won a game 28-21 that Cleveland wanted so much.

It was fourth and inches to go on the Packers' 44 with Cleveland leading 14-7. Instead of punting or sending Jim Taylor up the middle, Starr went for the pass and connected with Max McGee who ran to the Cleveland one. Taylor went over and Paul Hornung tied the score.

A few minutes later Jimmy Brown fumbled when hit and Green Bay recovered on the Cleveland 22. It was Tom Moore, Taylor and Moore again. Then Starr faked handoffs and rolled into the end zone.

For that fine performance, a week after he had been knocked out of action in San Francisco, Starr was given The Associated Press' recognition as player of the week in the National Football League.

Starr completed 13 of 18 passes for 131 yards with McGee his favorite target.

Tiger Has Shutout

SAN JUAN (AP) — Dennis McLain of the Detroit Tigers, pitched a seven-hitter, striking out 14 as Mayaguez shut out Santurce 3-0 in a Puerto Rican winter league baseball game Tuesday night.

Hopalong Cassidy Joins Paste Firm

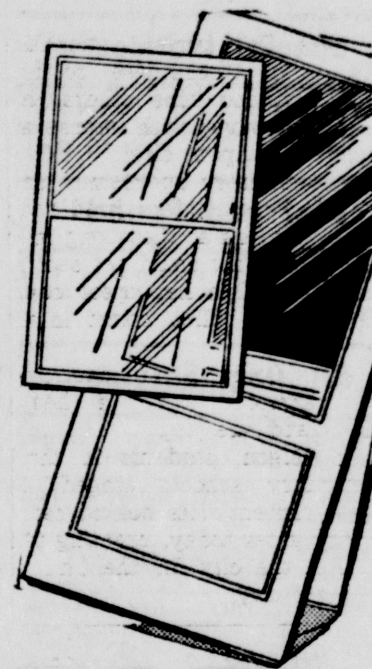

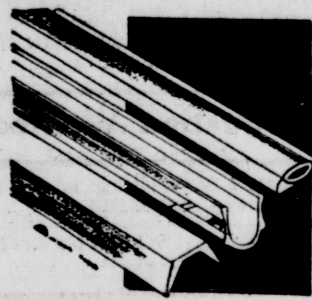

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Howard (Hopalong) Cassidy, former Ohio State University and professional football star, has joined a paste company here.

Cassidy, 1955 Heisman Trophy winner and a former halfback for the Detroit Lions, Cleveland Browns and Philadelphia Eagles, will be on the management staff in charge of customer relations, a company statement said. The firm is the Commercial Paste Co., maker of Evans' Adhesives.

Cincinnati beat the St. Louis Cardinals on their season series, 10 games to 8.

Buckeye, Toledo City Dominate All-Northwest

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Players from the Buckeye Conference and the Toledo City League dominated the all-northwestern district high school district football team selected for The Associated Press by area sports editors.

Four members of the Sandusky Blue Streaks, who finished seventh in the final poll, were named to the first team. Eighth ranked Rossford won two spots, and four members of tenth-ranked Fremont St. Joseph were honored in the Class A selections.

The district board did not select the year's outstanding coach, back and lineman for the season.

The all-district teams:
Class AA
Offense: Ends Ben Bober of Rossford, Dave Daniels of Toledo MaComber, and Ron Grogg of Defiance; tackles Dave Schweinfurth of Sandusky, Rufus Mayes of Toledo MaComber and Ed Lingval of Bryan; guards Dan Nasse of Sandusky, Jay Rubenstein of Toledo DeVilbiss and Tim Hunter of Paulding; centers Tim Pranschke of Toledo Scott and Robert Lee of Upper Sandusky; quarterbacks Larry Emch of Rossford, Mark Hoffman of Bellevue and Harry Gonso of Findlay; backs Keith Carpenter of Bryan, Jim Brown of Sandusky, Ted Jobe of Toledo Scott; John Ulmer of Toledo DeVilbiss, and Taylor Hart of Norwalk.

Defense: Ends Ed Beers of Findlay, Dennis Zolciak of Toledo Central, and Steve Fejes of Toledo Clay; tackles Mike Van Dyke of Lima Senior, Dave Reed of Fremont and Brad Heubner of Toledo Whitmer; middle guard Ron Rasi of Toledo Clay and Dawson Coker of Toledo Libbey; linebacksers Carl Schlessler of Toledo Waite, Ron Balconi of Sandusky, Larry Olczewski of Toledo Rogers and Tom Rice, Lima Senior; backs Jerry Ehrsham of Toledo Rogers, Mike Harp of Toledo Whitmer, Bob Wert of Toledo DeVilbiss.

Class A
Offense: Ends George Marlati of Lima Perry, Kevin Geiger of New London, Keith Krynock of Lakeside, and Steve Arry o Hardin-Northern; tackles Jerry Studer of Ottawa-Glandorf, Joe Hudak of Lakeside, and Dennis make several position switches in the final selections.

Bob Timberlake, who quarterbacked Michigan to the conference championship, was one of six unanimous choices on the 22-man squad of one team on offense and the other on defense. However, Timberlake, because of his ability to do everything, was selected as a halfback.

The move enabled Gary Snook, Iowa's passing sensation, to grab the quarterback spot on the offensive team with Dick Gordon of Michigan State at halfback and Jim Grabowski, Big Ten rushing champion from Illinois, at fullback.

Timberlake and Gordon were the only unanimous choices on offense. On defense, All-America Dick Butkus of Illinois, tackle Bill Yearby of Michigan and defensive backs George Donnelly of Illinois and Arnie Chonko of Ohio state were named on every vote cast.

With Butkus, Ike Kelley of Ohio State and Tom Cecchini of Michigan at linebacksers, such standouts as Charles Migyanka of Michigan State, Tom Bugel of Ohio State and Don Hansen of Illinois had to be relegated to the second team.

Mrs. Musselman Writings Acknowledged by Kennedys

Like millions of other persons who were shocked by the tragic assassination of President Kennedy last year, Mrs. John Musselman of Route 1, has written numerous poems, odes and readings and submitted them to Mrs. Kennedy.

Mrs. Musselman has written and dedicated poems to young John and Caroline, including "Where Is My Secret Compartment?" to John and "Klipity-Klop" to Caroline. To Jacqueline two poems written in December of 1963 were "Texas Hat and Boots" and "Not a Whisper."

Mrs. Musselman did not stop there. She purposed in her heart that she was going to keep the writings going on the 22nd of each month until Nov. 22, 1964 — and she did. All the writings have been graciously accepted by the Kennedy family and she has received acknowledgements from them all, along with some from the Edward Kennedys and Robert and Ethel Kennedy.

Here are some of her works: January, "The Eternal Flame"; February, "The Cornerstone Of Progress"; March, "Camelot"; April, "St. Christopher's Medal"; May, "Antique Rose Garden"; June, "A Father's Observation"; July, "Golden Nuggets Undelivered"; August, "A Man Of Destiny"; September, "Giant Cedar".

FOR October, a "Portrayal of President Kennedy from Excerpts of Pope, Shakespeare, and Booker T. Washington" was compiled by Mrs. Musselman. The last one for November 22, 1964 was a poem entitled "I Had a Rendezvous With Death".

For these Mrs. Musselman received her last acknowledgement Nov. 23, 1964 from Jacqueline Kennedy. Each of them will be laminated and placed in a scrapbook to show to her grandchildren someday.

Convey 297 acres of Belmont County Sanatorium - experimental farm lands to Ohio University for a campus for a branch now using St. Clairsville High School.

Allow school districts to contract with state or federal agencies for retraining of out-of-school youth or adults, even if they don't live in the district (correcting a situation which arose when the Niles board sought to operate a facility at Vienna near Youngstown.).

Correct a 1963 legislative oversight which, in continuing a penny of the five-cents-a-pack cigarette tax beyond its Dec. 31 expiration date, failed to continue prohibition against the usual wholesalers' 3-13 per cent discount on that penny. The money is to meet the $250 million capital improvements bond issue approved a year ago and, without the prohibition, wholesalers might have gotten a "windfall" of $250,000 to $300,000.

A 27th bill was introduced in the House Tuesday. It would increase the number of deputy oil and gas well inspectors which the State Mines Division chief can appoint from three to six to meet his needs of he recent oil "boom."

Also introduced was a resolution calling for the Legislature to meet every year instead of every other year, and to increase terms of Ohio House members from two to four years.

The legislative reapportionment resolution now goes to the Senate, where 20 votes (exactly the number of seats Republicans hold) will be needed for passage. The resolution then would go to voters in next May's primary as a constitutional amendment, effective in 1966.

Eccard Member Of Aggie Band

Larry D. Eccard, a freshman at Texas A&M University, College Station, Tex., is a member of the famous Texas Aggie Band.

The Aggie Band is the world's largest military band and has performed in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas and Rice Stadium in Houston this year.

Thanksgiving Day band will play in Austin's Memorial Stadium at the Texas University and Texas A&M game. This year's unit has 219 marching members with 12 alternates. This also includes three drum majors.

Texas A&M has no school of music and the band is an extracurricular activity. This year's band has cadets from 17 states and three foreign countries.

The Aggie musicians are famous for their intricate military maneuvers. The marching "T" and multiple continuous counter-march has made the unit famous.

Eccard was a member of the CHS Band and the Davis Demons. A 1964 CHS graduate, he is the son of Mrs. Roselyn D. Eccard, 163 W. Mound St.
